

Comfort Suites Hilton Head Island – Perfect Hotel for Visiting your new Marine!

We recently got back from a trip to Parris Island, South Carolina. We were proud to bring back our new Marine and loved our stay at the Comfort Suites Hilton Head Island. When booking the trip, there were many options available that were close to the base, however the price range was higher than we were interested in paying. We were spending family day and the graduation day on the base, so there was no need to spend extra money on a hotel that we were not going to spend much time at.

We were surprised to find that this hotel was roughly $150 per night and with our Check Inn savings, brought it down to $100. If you are unfamiliar with what Check Inn savings are, here is the quick run down. It is a company called CLC Lodging that offers business discounts for hotel stays. You can receive cards for all employees of your business and everyone can enjoy 20 – 40% discounted from their stay while traveling. It has been a very convenient card for my wife and I, that run multiple online businesses and has saved us a tremendous amount.

The Comfort Suites Hilton Head Island Hotel offers many amenities

The Comfort Suites hotel was perfect for us. Everything was immaculate, very clean, up-to-date and comfortable. I loved spending time in the pool and the fitness room. They had exactly what we needed and were very accommodating.

They offered multiple amenities including:

Pool

Workout Room

Complimentary Breakfast

Room Service

Free Wifi

Walking distance to multiple restaurants, shops and fast food

Was under a 30 minute drive to the Parris Island Marine Base

I personally give the Comfort Suites hotel a 5 star rating and would love to go back in the future!

Looking for a House Sitter to meet your Travel Needs?

Looking for a House Sitter to meet your Travel Needs?

One common problem that I see many people running into is not being able to travel due to the need of a house sitter, specifically related to their pets most often.

Traveling with Pets

It's not that it cannot be accomplished to travel with a pet, but life can be much easier when it comes to:

- Wanting to experience different events that are not pet friendly
- Hotels, Motels, Lodges, etc
- Amusement parks
- Nightlife
- the list goes on

So, why not consider a service that has been 100% trusted and guaranteed to leave you satisfied for your next travel endeavor?

Confidential Secure Matching System Gets Results!...

HouseCarers has been securely matching Homeowners with House Sitters since October 2000. We have researched the practice of house sitting and created acceptable guidelines to help our members make informed decisions. We use the power of the internet to connect our members across United States and around the world.

PlanetCeleste from Seattle, Washington says...

"Your service has helped us find a perfect match within a month of signing up. Thank you! This housesit allows us to be back near family and friends at a time when our family is growing (my niece and her husband are adopting a baby), and in a way that gives us time to think about where we want to travel next. (The assignment is for a full year.) We're thrilled! ..." Read On >

Would we recommend Mears Transportation for your travel needs?

A heavy “NO”

SUMMARY:

It is important to find great deals while traveling due to the increased cost of living worldwide. Heck, that's why we created this website for you! But at what cost will you take up a great deal? Yes, Mears Transportation does offer affordable transportation to your destination but when your safety is compromised and customer service is unhelpful and disrespectful, is it really worth it?

Mears Transportation Review: The Taxi of Death!

I have had numerous moments of terror while being transported in a ride for hire but nothing, NOTHING compares to this spine-chilling hell ride!

My wife and I had just arrived at the Orlando International Airport to begin our month long honeymoon. It was late and we were tired, but still filled with excitement for the adventure that awaited us. We approached the service counter for Mears Transportation and were greeted by an elderly man with a surly demeanor. Begrudgingly he asked how he could help us. After a brief exchange of the name a location of our hotel he inquired about round trip tickets for the shuttle. I started to explain that we would be vacationing for a month and would need to be picked up from a different hotel on

In a grumbled elevated voice he barked at us, “I don’t have time for this!”

He printed out our 1 way tickets and ignored any further questions we had. Maybe he had Halitosis and didn’t want to talk to us. Maybe he had an itch he couldn’t scratch. Maybe his shoes were too tight. We all have bad days and I was willing to give him a pass. But what came next was no simple disregard of charm.

Outside we waited for our shuttle, giggling about our experience with the grump behind the counter. After a few minutes a taxi pulled up with an attractive older blonde woman in the back. A large Haitian man jumped out of the driver’s seat, began grabbing our bags and asked where we were headed. Apparently the shuttle service and the cab company are both owned by Mears Transportation. So we hopped in the cab and were on our merry way... Or so we thought.

My wife was seated in the back with the blonde stranger while I sat up front with the driver. This gave me quite the vantage point for the terror that was about to ensue. We were traveling at top speed on the expressway while our driver refused to look at the road ahead of him. His phone seemed to have complete control over his focus. We drifted across the lanes. No turn signal! No care for personal safety! The sound of horns blaring all around could not deter the vigilance of this man’s relationship with his phone. The surrounding motorists swerving to avoid a collision. Tires squealing in defense of their passengers. Dear God, is this how I leave the world? Was this a nightmare? Had I fallen asleep while watching Death Proof? I will forever refer to this experience as my, "Getting right with God moment".

If you plan on vacationing in the Orlando area please, please PLEASE do NOT under any circumstance put your life in the hands of a Mears driver. Find any other service, get an Uber driver, ride a bike, take a hot air balloon. If you choose to use Mears, good luck to you. I hope you have life insurance.
